With an Eye to the Future

Many farmers these days are wondering how their sons will take to farming on their return from overseas. After all, these lads have been some pretty exciting places and many of them have had a taste of higher standards of living. Will your son, like so many others, leave the farm and go to the city? Perhaps not if you put a few improvements on your property and reawaken his interest in it. Have the cash ready to do this after the war by saving laid aside now when farm income is high. Victory Bonds are a "million good reasons" for keeping wartime savings secure for future use.

Most farmers who have youngsters growing up have their minds set on certain improvements or purchases they would like to make farm life more attractive and more comfortable. Electricity, running water, and up to date tools to relieve the drudgery of much of the farm work, will help retain the young people's interest in farming. Surplus cash put away in Victory Bonds now will be available for these desirable things later.

Many farmers are the sons of farmers and are carrying on the farm which their father worked before them. Perhaps in the prosperous years of the last war their father laid aside some savings which came in mighty handy during the days of the 1920's. From the surplus cash of the present war years a fund of the present will which will help to meet any demand in the future. Victory Bonds are the best investment for the farmer. They earn good interest and can be readily cashed in at any time.

E.I.D. NOTES

WARBLE FLY CAMPAIGN SOON TO BEGIN

At the E.I.D. annual meeting of water users held last spring it was decided that warble treatment of all cattle pastured in the E.I.D. be made compulsory.

The most effective time for treatment is from the last week in March to the 1st of May. It is advisable to give two treatments about three weeks apart. Custom charge including powder for one treatment by power sprayers will be—

100 head & over 8 cts per head
50-100 head & over 10 cts per head
Less than 50 head & over 15 cts per head.

The E.I.D. has three machines. Private owners have offered to cooperate. Stringham Bros. of Duchesne have a new machine which will be available for custom work in the Imperial Colony and Patricia district. Niron Bros. Duchesne also have a new machine which will handle cattle from Duchesne West and North. Other new sprayers are owned by R.Z. and Charles McKinnon in the Bassano district.

It would be well for farmers with small herds to group them at a central spot to take advantage of the lower rates.

Only by compulsory cooperation of all cattle owners in treating their cattle for warbles, can this pest be cleared up. It is estimated the average annual loss from warbles is $5.00 per head. Some stockmen claim that if their cattle were not treated they would not winter on the range.

Hand treatment with a derris solution and a brush is just as effective as a power sprayer and would be more suitable in districts with small herds.

Derris powder for warble treatment of cattle will be available at cost at E.I.D. Headquarters, at Brooks.

MAKE ALL ARRANGEMENTS FOR TREATING EARLY.

quint our delegates to the Red Cross Provincial Convention held at the Palliser Hotel, Calgary on Monday the 10 of February, report a very interesting and profitable session. Many matters of importance were discussed and helpful advice given to those interested in the Red Cross work. They visited the Red Cross Headquarters and Work Rooms, Crispin Children's Hospital, Blood Donor Clinic, and Superfund Shop, and were very much impressed by what they saw, and returned home more determined than ever to have Bassano Branch one of the best in the Province.

Hitler described Germany as an "unshakable community of people" and predicted an "historic turning point" in the war would come this year. He was vague on the subject and offered no prospect of any immediate change in Germany's fortunes.

He declared that all the peoples whose leaders have signed a pact against Germany "will sooner or later be victims of its evil spirits they have invoked today."

TERRIBLE LESSON

"They have given us such a terrible lesson," he declared, "that there is no greater terror in store for us."

One hope which he repeated over and over was that "providence" would not let the German nation down if it put up a last ditch fight.

Hitler threatened death to anyone who "shows himself to be a coward or who even sabotages the fight" and declared he valued his own life "only in what it is worth to the nation." Anyone who did not join the Volksturm (home guard) would be annihilated, he warned.

Revolvers and Pistols must be Registered.

Registration of all pistols and revolvers must be completed by April 1st, 1945. Failure to do so will result in a fine of $100.00 or imprisonment for 6 months.

A GOOD BULL IS
"HALF THE HERD"

The quality of your whole herd can be raised, with profit to you, by careful breeding with a well-bred bull. The same principle applies with every kind of livestock.

Realizing the importance of good male animals, you may wish to purchase superior individuals but lack the cash to do so. Under such circumstances, the wise course is to discuss a loan for the purpose with your local bank manager. The Royal Bank of Canada is constantly making loans to farmers for this and many other productive purposes. If you have your eye on some desirable animal and need cash to make an advantageous "buy", talk your proposition over with the manager of our nearest branch.

Again THE RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD GIVE!

Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed, pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men on the battlefield or in hospitals are tormented by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded. It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and your neighbors, and all the good folks up and down this fair Dominion of ours. You will send help—yes, life itself—to the stricken people of other lands. You will stand squarely behind your Red Cross, and—GIVE!

Don't Delay: Order your seed Potatoes now?

Demand from the United States and from other countries for Canadian certified seed potatoes is particularly active, the Agricultural Department said today.

In view of this Canadian potato growers are urged by the Department to place their orders for seed potatoes without delay. If they fail to do so they may find when planting time comes that seed potato dealers will be unable to fill orders. At present there are enough seed potatoes available to fill all orders that are placed; but if the orders from export markets continue to roll in as they are now doing, the supply may soon be exhausted.

Potato growers are reminded of the advantages of certified seed to get increased yield and a better crop.

Important Question up to Farmers

The question how to use spare or disposable cash to the best advantage is an important one in connection with farm business management at the present time. The choice is between spending and saving. The farmer who chooses to save the greatest possible amount now makes his own position more secure. He can use the savings built up now as the means by which to secure better farms, make them more pleasant places to live and work on, and provide a nest-egg against unforeseen events.

There is no more convincing proof than the experience of the past. About 25 years ago the demand for farm products was high as it is now. Prices not being controlled as in this war, rose rapidly and went far. Farmers, as a result, appeared to be doing pretty well. In the latter years of the 1914-18 war, and for a time afterwards, they went on a fairly generous spending spree. They bought land and machinery, and other goods at high prices, and in doing so, pushed prices still higher. The day of reckoning came in the 1930's. The debt which had been piled up in the early period became one of the chief burdens of the depression years.

In World War I farmers got into debt; in the present war so far they have been getting out of the debt.

This time, higher income has been used to get down to a reasonable level to a point where farmers can be sure in the future of being able to meet interest and principal payments.

Over and above this, farmers have put away substantial amounts of savings. The wise farmer will not invest these savings in farm land, which may now appear to be an attractive buy, but will invest them in safe securities such as Victory bonds so that in the post-war period he will be able to get those things which, when on the market again, will make for a higher standard of farm living.

WINGS OVER CANADA

What's going to happen to all the thousands of R.C.A.F. training aircraft after the war? Will they be useful for post-war private and commercial flying?

The answer is 99 percent NO. As C.D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, has pointed out, the twin engine aircraft used for training bomber air crews, aside from the fact that most of them will be pretty well worn out, are not designed as economical ships for commercial use. Because the cost of flying a plane and its performance are far more important than its initial cost, commercial airline operators will much prefer new ships.

And what about the private plane? Thousands of airmen are wondering about this question too. Canada has thousands of comparatively small single-engine two-seater trainers, the kind of which was the sleek, low wing Cornell. This was a Fairchild design, manufactured in Canada under license.

Even this lightest and newest of all air force training planes is much heavier and bulkier to fly than the light civilian planes which were sold before the war and which will again go on sale immediately the war is over. The Cornell, for instance, uses more than twice as much gasoline as the light civilian plane which also carries two people and flies at about the same speed.

This is because the air force needed heavier, more difficult-to-fly planes if men were to be graduated quickly onto sniped-up fighters and bombers. In other words, the conventional light plane which the average man will be asked to afford to buy and own was too easy to fly from the air force's standpoint.

Nevertheless, thousands of men fighting in air force operations, particularly those who fought in those early desperate days of the war, did get their training on the light planes which have since been used as crashopper, ambulance and artillery spotting planes.

Actually, the biggest hurdle to converting air force light trainers to civilian use in this: every plane licensed for civilian flying must carry a certificate of airworthiness from the Department of Transport. This is an elemental, common sense safety precaution for civilian flying. Most of the air force trainers have spent many hours in the air, and before an inspector will give them certificate of airworthiness, he will require that they be given complete overhauls. Such overhauls, on a Cornell, for instance, cost almost the same as the total cost of a brand new light plane, which can be flown at about the same speed and for a fraction of the cost.

In other words, there isn't much point in selling an air force veteran an old plane for $100 which will cost him $2000 to overhaul, when he could buy a brand new one for the latter price perhaps.

A few of the newer trainers, however, will be able to secure certificates of airworthiness without overhaul, and thus, it is reported, will be given to flying clubs throughout the Dominion by the government.

Right now, nobody knows exactly how many companies will be building light planes in Canada after the war. The industry is full of rumors. Before the war, only one company—Cub at Hamilton, Ont.—built light planes in Canada. Other makes were imported. One thing about it is certain—it's going to be a wild, competitive scramble and the public will have planes—inexpensive, safe and easy to fly.

Paul Johnston, CBC engineer, formerly of CBC Watrous, has returned from evacuated service with CBC's wireless unit and will be attached to the International Shortwave Service as assistant to R.D. has a proud record of war service, it is because you, and your neighbour, the mother of a lad in prison camp, the wife of a sergeant in the front lines, your corner grocer—because all of you, pulling together, have written that proud record.

It is campaign time again. This March Canadian Red Cross is asking for Ten million Dollars to carry on its tireless mission of mercy and the need is greater now than ever before. Why?

Because the responsibilities of Red Cross have increased. Millions of people in the liberated countries are destitute. The highways of Europe are choked with hungry, homeless people. They turn to the Red Cross as to a never-failing friend. It is our privilege now to live up to that faith to help them in their urgent need.

At the suggestion of the Canadian Government, the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund is collaborating with Canadian Red Cross to bring help to these suffering people. By this effort additional aid will be sent to Allied Red Cross Societies for distribution to the stricken civilians of the United Nations. Already some 4,345 tons of relief clothing and food has been sent.

And that is only part of it. Food parcels must go forward to keep our prisoners of war alive, and in good health until they are repatriated and homebound again. We have news of the arrival of a shipment of one million
